Three Things for Mutt and Jeff.
There are three things that may be said in behalf of the production of "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico," which came to—or descended upon—the Academy of Music for two performances yesterday. First, the audience of last night was large, and gave every show, therefore, last night, he seemed a wondrous big bird of the surrounding murk of incapacity.

The other two do not really matter, but they will be said for the sake of fairness, pressed down and running over. The second "strait" man of the cast, Theodore Hoffman, who played and sang the lieutenant, would appear fairly competent in the average musical show; therefore, last night, he seemed a wondrous big bird of the surrounding murk of incapacity.

Further and finally, Bud Fisher's comedies are certainly funny—in the newspapers.
At the Academy of Music next Monday "The Yellow Ticket" will begin a three days' engagement, with a special matinee Wednesday. This is a national drama of life in modern Russia as seen through the eyes of a young man, and which ran for more than a year.

The "Yellow Ticket" was written by Michael Morton, who is best known for his country for his dramatization of "Toilet's" "Resurrection." There are three acts, which is a little more than a full-length play, and the adventures of a young and beautiful girl, who is forced to apply for the yellow ticket in order to leave the "pale of settlement" to which she is restricted because of her faith.

"The Midnight Girl" comes Thursday.
The "Midnight Girl" registered such a hit at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, New York, last season that the Messrs. Shubert concluded to put the attraction on the road, and this city will be one of the first to see it, as it will be presented at the Academy of Music next Thursday, matinee and night.

The "Midnight Girl" is full of sprightly comedy, dancing, both individual and chorus, and tuneful melodies that give the piece such distinctive form that it takes its place as one of the best of the current season's offerings. No effort has been spared, it is said, to make "The Midnight Girl" an ocular delight, for more pretty girls, effective scenery, or fascinating costumes it would be difficult to assemble. The cast is headed by Viola Gillette.

Warfield in "The Auctioneer."
David Warfield will come to the Academy of Music next Friday and Saturday with Saturday matinee, in realization of a promise which David Warfield made to the theatre-going public years ago. When he removed "The Auctioneer" from the stage at the very height of its success he assured a later and greater performance by Mr. Warfield of the quaint old East Side character—the first of his great creative portraits in the world's theatrical hall of fame.

The desire of the New York theatre-going public to see Mr. Warfield again in "The Auctioneer" was so keen that his engagement at the Belasco Theatre, New York, last season was extended away beyond its original limit, thereby making it necessary to continue the revival for another season—if the wishes of all those theatre-goers who urged David Belasco to revive this comedy were to be considered.

Mr. Belasco has written "The Auctioneer," bringing it down to date, with the result that it is said to be a much stronger play than before. Mr. Warfield's engagement will be probably the foremost event of the dramatic calendar.

INJURIES WILL PREVENT
STARS FROM PLAYINGV. M. I. Supporters in Gloomy Mood
Over Chances With Richmond
College To-day.

The cadets of the Virginia Military Institute were cast into a state of gloom when it was learned that the injuries received in Wednesday's scrimmage by three of the mainstays of the football team would keep them from participating in to-day's game with Richmond College.

Two of the men injured, Captain Bain and Nelson, both of the backfield, were declared factors in last Saturday's game, while Kilde, the third one, was a tower of strength on the defense. The loss of these men will greatly handicap the team when it faces the Richmond College eleven.

The most probable line-up will be the following:

A. & M. READY FOR WAKE FOREST ELEVENPast Week's Scrimmages Have Been Full of "Hep" and Ginger—Black

WEST RALEIGH, N. C., October 2.—The Agricultural and Mechanical College football warriors went through their last scrimmage Wednesday. Thursday and to-day they only held light signal drill in preparation for their opening game Saturday with Wake Forest College.

The Baptist eleven report that their team is better than it was last year, so the Red and White pickin' artists are expecting a good run.

Coach Hegarty has not definitely decided upon the personnel of the team that will start the game for Agricultural and Mechanical, but the following is the probable line-up: McEloughlin, right end; Cooke, right tackle; Young, right guard; Captain Plier, center; Nove, Bruner or Davis, left guard; Winston or Turner, left tackle; Anthony or Seifert, left end; Van Brocklin, quarter back; Riddick, left half back; Tonn, full back; Townsend or Sharpe, right half back.

The game during the past week has been featured by the phenomenal playing of Cooke, right tackle. This is Cooke's third year on the team. Last year he was one of the best tackles in this section, but his work this season in the scrimmages has been far superior to any that he displayed last year. If he kept up his present form he will push some one hard for South Atlantic honors.

The playing of the veteran backfield men has been up to their usual form and they will be heard from Saturday. The backfield is as strong as it was last year, but the line is a little weak owing to a number of inexperienced players in it.

The game to-morrow will be witnessed by a large number of old Agricultural and Mechanical football players. This is the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration week and there are quite a number of the old stars back who will watch the work of their successors with a great deal of interest.

RICHMOND HOWITZERS
MAKE FINE DISPLAYArtillerymen Present Themselves in Splendid Form for Inspection by Colonel Jo Lane Stern.

With every officer and nearly every private in the command present, members of the Richmond Howitzers presented themselves in splendid form last night when inspected at the armory by Colonel Jo Lane Stern, assistant inspector general. Orders were issued yesterday by Captain William M. Myers that every member of the command attend the inspection last night, and each responded. Major T. M. Wortham, commanding the battalion, was present at the inspection.

Captain Churchill, of the United States Army, who has been detailed to instruct the Virginia batteries, attended the inspection and delivered an interesting lecture on the modern methods in the use of artillery. He explained just how the big field guns may be used to the best advantage in times of war, and proved each of his points with demonstrations. Captain Churchill to-day will assist in the inspection of equipment and the primary and in the inspection of battery and battalion headquarters. He will remain in Richmond several days. A dance followed the inspection. The inspection of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues will be conducted on Monday night.

JACK JOHNSON BECOMES THE ASSISTANT COACH

ELON COLLEGE, N. C., October 2.—There is great satisfaction among all here that Jack Johnson, member of last year's varsity basketball and baseball teams, and of last year's graduating class, has been elected assistant coach and instructor of mathematics. Johnson is a popular man and his presence in the college has brought approval and delight.

Coach Doak is hopeful of the athletic situation. He has most of his old material back and very promising new men are turning out. A strong basketball schedule has been arranged by Manager Bradford, several Managers are at work on his baseball roster. It is expected that a larger percentage of the games will be played with North Carolina colleges than last year, and this as it should be. There was much regret last year over the fact that so many games were scheduled with out-of-State teams.

Suits Instituted.
Suits for $5,000 were brought in the Law and Equity Court yesterday by William A. Collins against the Virginia Railway and Power Company. No declaration was filed.

In the same court the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Stockton, Cal., filed suit for $250 against E. F. Rugg.

CLASS "C" DIRECTORS NAMED
Will Represent Government in Atlanta and Philadelphia Banks.

WASHINGTON, October 2.—Class "C" directors to represent the government in the Federal reserve banks of Atlanta and Philadelphia were announced to-night by the Federal Reserve Board. Directors of this class for each of the twelve banks were named Wednesday, and it is expected that those for the remaining five will be announced to-morrow, making possible the organization of the new system in the immediate future.

The Atlanta appointments announced to-night were M. B. Wellborn, Anniston, Ala., chairman of the board of directors and Federal reserve agent; Edward T. Brown, Atlanta, vice-chairman and deputy Federal reserve agent, and W. H. Kettig, Birmingham, Ala., director.

LITTLE GOLDIE INGE
DIES FROM INJURIESWas Run Over by Clay Street Car on August 31, and Never Recovered.

Goldie Inge, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Daisy Inge, of Winston-Salem, N. C., died yesterday at Grace Hospital of injuries received when she was run over by a street car on August 31 at Twenty-eighth and Broad Streets. The child was terribly injured in the accident, and her condition was regarded as practically hopeless after she was removed to the hospital. She suffered severe external injuries, and was injured internally. Meningitis set in after she was taken to the hospital, and her condition became gradually worse, until she succumbed.

Little Goldie and several other children were playing together at Twenty-eighth and Broad Streets when an east-bound Clay Street car came in sight. As the car bore down upon the children several bystanders, among them Mrs. L. Kellam, shouted a warning. Goldie, who was with Mary Inge, her cousin, a daughter of F. J. Inge, of 2510 East Broad Street, Mary stepped back out of the way of the car. But Goldie, dazzled by the onrush of the heavy vehicle and by the shouts intended to warn her, attempted to cross in front of the car. In the middle of the tracks she hesitated, and then started forward. She was too late, and the motorman was unable to halt the momentum of his car. The child was caught directly beneath the trucks and was dragged almost half a block before the car was stopped. She was not lightly wedged that it was necessary to take up part of the flooring of the car to extricate her body. She recovered consciousness a moment and recognized her uncle. Then she lost consciousness again, and was inert when Mrs. O. F. Blankenship and J. R. Blair reached her side. She suffered a broken collarbone, the toes of her right foot were cut off and the little finger of her right hand was fractured. She was hurt internally, so seriously that little hope in the beginning was entertained of her recovery.

FACING STARVATION

LONDON, October 2.—Seven hundred thousand persons in Brussels are facing starvation, according to Hugh Gibson, secretary of the American embassy there, who is now in London. The supply of flour in the Belgian capital will be exhausted to-day, and other staples are virtually all consumed. The last appropriation of flour to the citizens will be given out this afternoon.

Efforts to get food in from Antwerp have failed. Inasmuch as Brussels is in charge of the Germans, it is in effect German territory. Neutral nations could not undertake to supply food to Brussels.
